Ban Against Assistant Secretary Of State Seen As Last Straw

BULLETIN LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 13-Andrei Vishinsky of Russia blasted the United States and Britain in the United Nations today with charges of dictating their Greek policy on other governments.

He served notice that the Soviet Union will continue its campaign against Greece.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13-Rep. Michener (R) Mich., chairman of the house judiciary committee, disclosed today that congress may be asked to bar Soviet officials from visiting the United States.

The influential Republican whose committee has jurisdiction over legislation affecting entrance visas struck back hard at the Soviet government for its refusal to admit Assistant Secretary of State Peurifoy and members of the senate appropriations com-

Congress' Approval Seen For Marshall Aid Plan

Special to Central Press WASHINGTON—Congressional opposition to restoration of war-time controls to deal with the European famine and domestic price situations is receiving strong support from several members of President Truman's cabinet. Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman, in particular, has declared openly that the possibilities inherent in voluntary public cooperation should be exhausted before considering resumption of any government controls.

President Truman has yielded to that view, although he has indicated that his own position will depend on what he regards as demonstrated The feeling in Congress is that restoration of rationing, price controls, or other measures will not be seriously considered unless homefront inflation gets so far out of hand as to provoke a sweep of reaction from the American public. FOREIGN RELIEF-The best opinion avail able on Capitol Hill is that Congress will place its stamp of approval on the Marshall plan for aiding Europe and vote funds for the western democracies overseas. Economy-minded Republicans, notably Rep. John Taber of New York, chairman of the House appropriations committee, may force a reduction in the amount requested, but they are expected to go along on the overall plan.

There will be strong opposition, especially from those who feel Europeans are depending too much on American help rather than self-aid, but a safe majority for the Marshall plan is expected to be forthcoming in both houses.

Cabinet Members Backing Opposition to Rationing

Congress' Approval Seen For Marshall Aid Plan

Special to Central Press WASHINGTON-Congressional opposition to restoration of wartime controls to deal with the European famine and domestic price situations is receiving strong support from several members of President Truman's cabinet.

Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman, in particular, has declared openly that the possibilities inherent in voluntary public cooperation should be exhausted before considering resumption of any government controls. President Truman has yielded to that view, > will depend on what he regards as demonstrated The feeling in Congress is that restoration of rationing, price controls, or other measures will not be seriously considered unless homefront inflation gets so far out of hand as to provoke a democracies overseas. Economy-minded Republicans, notably Rep. John Taber of New York, chairman of the House appropriations committee, may force a reduction in the amount requested, but they are expected to go along on the overall plan.

There will be strong opposition, especially from those who feel Europeans are depending too much on American help rather than self-aid, but a safe majority for the Marshall plan is expected to be forthcoming in both houses.

• LOVE AMONG THE DEMOCRATS-The "love feast" between Democratic Chairman-designate McGrath and Democratic Executive Director Gael Sullivan, cemented by President Truman, has doused what threatened to be inner fireworks for the party.

Sullivan's agreement to stay on at the invitation of J. Howard McGrath has smoothed over feelings of those who opposed the New Deal Rhode Island senator for retiring Chairman Bob Hannegan's Before all became "beer and skittles" to the Democrats, many were surprised at the selection of McGrath, who will take office Oct. 29, when the Democrats meet to pick the time and place for the 1948 convention. Now, with Mr. Truman having called McGrath and Sullivan a "great team" for 1948, there is little or no chance for rebellion.

• TEAMSTERS LEAVING AFL?-Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Teamsters, says his union may be forced to leave the American Federation of Labor because of the Taft-Hartley law's requirement that all federation Tobin's executives sign anti-Communist affidavits.

Tobin in an article in the Teamsters magazine for October, points out that while all of the executives Article of the union have signed the affidavit, some of the AFL executive council members refused to do so. Then he adds: . . . the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and all its locals are denied the protection of the law, regardless of our effort

He concludes: "Apparently there is no answer except that we withdraw from the American Federation of Labor. At this time it seems to be the opinion of the majority of our executive board that we do not withdraw."

(Dealer: South. North-South

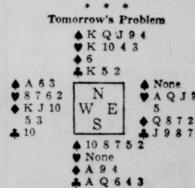

South West North 1 4 1 🌲 Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass There were some interesting

passes in that auction. North's first one was very sound, his second very conservative in appearance, but not so much so actually with a partner who could make that vulnerable "reverse" bid of hearts at the four level; it was more truly in the hope that the opponents would be lured into going on with a spade sacrifice, so that then a 5-Heart bid by him might sound weak and get doubled. When the opponents then tried to sacrifice at 5-Spades, he showed his fit for South's other suit with a slam bid in the lower ranking clubs. This time East swallowed the bait and doubled.

Use of such a double as a leaddirector is deadly in the hands of fine players, when the doubler has a hand whose value depends on the lead. But this pair did not employ a double in that manner. so West led the diamond J.

South won with the dummy's diamond K and immediately led the club J. No matter what East did now, he was thwarted. He played low and the J went through, dropping the 16. The A felled the Q, the hearts were run until East used the club K for his only trick.

Without East's double, South's best play would have been the A on the first round of clubs, so he could immediately lead the suit again, and as a result he would have been set.

EITHER REASON ENOUGH THERE are two extremely good reasons for being wary about doubling a slam contract which you expect to beat a trick or two. First, the information conveyed by your double may cause the declarer to play the hand so as to nullify the value of the assets with which you hope to down him. But the equally important second reason is found in the tremendous odds you are giving. If you beat the contract, the double gives you only a few extra points. whereas if you fail to, the double presents the declarer with many

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

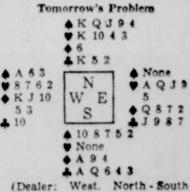

South West North Pass Pass Pass Pass There were some interesting

passes in that auction. North's first one was very sound, his second very conservative in appearance, but not so much so actually with a partner who could make that vulnerable "reverse" bid of hearts at the four level; it was more truly in the hope that the opponents would be lured into going on with a spade sacrifice, so that then a 5-Heart bid by him might sound weak and get doubled. When the opponents then tried to sacrifice at 5-Spades. he showed his fit for South's other suit with a slam bid in the lower ranking clubs. This time East swallowed the bait and doubled.

Use of such a double as a leaddirector is deadly in the hands of fine players, when the doubler has a hand whose value depends on the lead. But this pair did not employ a double in that manner. so West led the diamond J.

South won with the dummy's diamond K and immediately led the club J. No matter what East did now, he was thwarted. He played low and the J went through, dropping the 16. The A felled the Q, the hearts were run until East used the club K for his only trick.

Without East's double, South's best play would have been the A on the first round of clubs, so he could immediately lead the suit again, and as a result he would have been set.

SUICIDE, SAYS CORONER ABOUT DEATH OF BOY

Body of Ralph Seward, 15, Mason City, Ill., who shot and killed himself in the home of his employer, David L. Bierly, Jr., restaurant proprietor at New Holland, was removed late Sunday night from the Kirkpatrick and Son funeral home, New Holland, to a mortuary at Mason City where funeral services will be conducted.

The shooting occurred at midnight Saturday, was investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Dr. George W. Heffner, acting coroner. Dr. Heffner returned a suicide verdict. The youth left no suicide note and a motive for the act was undisclosed by the sheriff and acting coroner.

The boy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, live at Mason City. The Seward boy came to New Holland about three weeks ago and had worked in Bierly's restaurant. He lived with the Bierly family in an apartment above the restaurant. The lad was alone in the apartment at the time of the shooting. A 22-caliber rifle bullet was fired into his chest. Sheriff Radcliff said Bierly, who is a carnival concessionaire, met the boy while traveling with a carnival last year, and this led Bierly to give the youth a home.
